Demokrasi merupakan salah satu sistem politik yang ideal dalam sejarah peradaban manusia. Demokrasi telah menjadi salah satu norma universal yang dianggap mampu menjawabi segala problematika seputar kompleksitas kehidupan politik berbangsa dan bernegara. Secara substansial, demokrasi bertujuan untuk mengarahkan, mencita-citakan sebuah bangsa yang luhur dan mulia demi terciptanya kesejahteraan bersama (bonum commune).

Pada masa pandemi Covid-19, demokrasi mengalami kemunduran dalam realitas perpolitikan bangsa Indonesia. Hal ini ditandai dengan menguatnya intervensi militer dalam peran sipil, hubungan tidak harmonis antara kubu nasionalis-pluralis dengan konservatif dan masalah favoritisme politik yang berkembang menjadi tendensi dinasti politik. Di tengah situasi menurunnya kualitas demokrasi di Indonesia di masa pandemi covid-19, media sosial dinilai sebagai benang merah dalam menopang keberlangsungan sistem demokrasi. Kehadiran media sosial memperkuat peran dan efektivitas partisipasi ruang publik masyarakat dalam berdemokrasi. Media sosial memberikan pengaruh yang signifikan dalam menumbuhkembangkan demokrasi di Indonesia di masa pandemi covid-19, terutama berkaitan dengan akses informasi, interaksi, partisipasi, dan kebutuhan akan komunikasi yang terdesentralisasi.

Kata kunci: Media sosial, Demokrasi di Indonesia, dan Pandemi covid-19.

Democracy is one of the ideal political systems in the history of human civilization. Democracy has become one of the universal norms that is considered capable of answering all the problems surrounding the complexity of the political life of the nation and state. Substantially, democracy aims to direct, aspire to a noble and noble nation for the creation of common welfare (bonum commune).

During the Covid-19 pandemic, democracy experienced a setback in the political reality of the Indonesian nation. This is marked by the strengthening of military intervention in civilian roles, the inharmonious relationship between the nationalist-pluralist camp and conservatives and the problem of political favoritism that has developed into a political dynastic tendency. In the midst of the situation of the declining quality of democracy in Indonesia during the co-19 pandemic, social media is considered as a red thread in supporting the sustainability of the democratic system. The presence of social media strengthens the role and effectiveness of public space participation in democracy. Social media has a significant influence in fostering democracy in Indonesia during the co-19 pandemic, especially with regard to access to information, interaction, participation, and the need for decentralized communication.
