ABSTRACT

Gabriel Fahik, 20.75.6818, The Commandment of Mutual Love in the Gospel of John 15:9-17 and Its Relevance for Couples in Married Life in Silawan Village. Thesis. Study Program of Theological Sciences-Philosophy of Catholic Religion, Institute of Creative Philosophy and Technology Ledalero 2024.

The writing of this work aims to first provide an overview of the life of the Silawan Village community, secondly to find out the context of the life of husband and wife in married life at the age of five and thirdly to examine the commandment to love each other in married life at the age of five based on the Gospel of John 15: 9-17. The method used by the author is descriptive qualitative. The author uses scientific sources such as journals, books, dictionaries, the Bible and Church documents and several other written works that talk about married life. In addition, the author also uses the interview method with key informants who have knowledge and life experience related to marital life.

This study aims to look at the application of mutual love in the context of husband-wife life in married life at the age of five in Silawan Village. Based on this research, it can be concluded that the practice of mutual love in the life of husband and wife in Silawan Village is still very minimal. As a result, there are many cases of divorce that occur in married life. Jesus' advice on living in mutual love can be a guide for married couples in fostering households, especially in the age of infant marriage such as in Silawan Village so that it can reduce the divorce rate in the lives of married couples.

Keywords: Silawan Village community, mutual love, husband and wife, marriage age under five, divorce.
