ABSTRACT

Arkidius Bano. 21757005. Fratelli Tutti's Social Review of Phubbing Behavior in Students of the Ledalero Institute of Philosophy and Creative Technology. Thesis. Bachelor's Program, Philosophy Study Program, Ledalero Institute of Philosophy and Creative Technology. 2025.

The main purpose of writing this thesis is to comprehensively understand and explore the social survey of the Fratelli Tutti Encyclical on phubbing behavior in students of the Ledalero Institute of Philosophy and Creative Technology. The emergence of phubbing inhibits the freedom to actualize one's existence as a social being by creating social disintegration. Dealing with this, Fratelli Tutti Encyclical through its social review provides an actual strategic step by encouraging efforts to renew life authentically based on spirituality, fraternity and social friendship, inclusive and unlimited universal love. The type of research method used is descriptive qualitative with data collection techniques using literature studies as secondary data and structured interviews as primary data. The authors searched for a variety of relevant and credible scientific literature with research themes and interviewed students who engaged in and experienced firsthand phubbing behavior. The research was conducted at the Ledalero Institute of Philosophy and Creative Technology. The object of the research is phubbing behavior.

Based on the results of the study, it can be concluded that phubbing behavior according to the social review of the Fratelli Tutti Encyclical is a social obstacle to the dynamics of the social existence life of students of the Ledalero Institute of Philosophy and Creative Technology. The presence of phubbing does not necessarily close the Church's view of not being inclusive. The Church as an institution of faith plays a very significant role in reducing anti-social behavior of the phubbing model. The role of the Church through the calls to social moral values, attitudes and behaviors within the theological ethical framework of the Fratelli Tutti Encyclical must be used as the main and fundamental criterion that is contextually actualized for reviewing phubbing behavior in the dynamics of social life. According to the social review of the Fratelli Tutti Encyclical, every student must dare to get out of the confinement in their comfort zone in the digital world by limiting the use of smartphones in order to meet and build harmonious social relationships with others in the surrounding environment in a concrete way.
