ABSTRACT

Odilia Uni, 210102. "The Role of Catholic Religious Teachers in Character Formation of Students at Nita II Catholic Elementary School." Thesis, Undergraduate Program, Catholic Religious Education Study Program, Ledalero Institute of Philosophy and Creative Technology 2025.

This paper aims to determine how the role of Catholic Religious Teachers can help improve student character formation in the educational process at Nita II Elementary School. This is motivated by character changes caused by busy parents and the challenges of information technology development.

Character education aims to restore attitudes and behaviors to their place of origin, namely the family. Character education aims to raise parents' awareness of the importance of their duties and responsibilities as primary educators. Character education will thrive if there is a positive and harmonious relationship between family and school.

The research findings indicate that the role of Catholic Religious Teachers in character formation of students at Nita II Elementary School has not been maximized. This results in parents not providing optimal character education to their children due to a lack of understanding of character education. Therefore, the role of Catholic Religion teachers is very important to increase parental awareness of the importance of character formation for students at SDK Nita II, which needs to be increased by involving many parties, especially parents on the committee and community leaders.
