ABSTRACT

Maria Suwasti Nona Ervin, 22757350. Examining the Influence of the Presence of the Watukrus Cross on the Experience of Faith of the Congregation at the Watukrus Station in Light of the Gospel of John 3:1-17. Paper. Philosophy Study Program, Ledalero Institute of Philosophy and Creative Technology, 2026.

This scientific paper aims to: 1) explain the influence of the Cross on the experience of faith of the Watukrus Station congregation, 2) explain the glory of the Cross in the Gospel of John 3:1-17, and 3) explain the influence of the Cross on the experience of faith of the Watukrus Station congregation in light of the Gospel of John 3:1-17.

In this scientific paper, the author uses a qualitative approach to deeply understand the experiences, views, and experience of faith of the Watukrus congregation related to the presence of the Cross. To this end, the author uses a qualitative approach, with data collection instruments through literature studies, interviews, and observations. By using this approach, the author is able to obtain reliable information to complete this scientific paper.

This research shows that the presence of the Cross significantly influences the revival of faith among the congregation. This is evident in local traditional practices and the participation of the congregation through communal prayer in the basic church community (KBG), catechesis activities, Catholic youth activities (OMK), charitable services through mutual cooperation, and social solidarity. The presence of the Stone Cross has deepened the congregation's faith, strengthened brotherhood, strengthened the congregation's spirituality, fostered the spirit of faith among both the congregation and the youth, and made the Watukrus congregation a faithful witness to Christ in the world. Thus, this study confirms that the Stone Cross is not merely a physical monument but a living symbol of faith and a center for the Watukrus congregation's experience of faith. Its presence demonstrates God's tangible love, guiding the congregation to deepen the meaning of their faith through the text of John 3:1-17 in the context of their daily lives.
